

Striving together for excellence and enjoyment

Dear Parents/Carers,

As part of our Home Learning Policy, which is available on our school website, we have an expectation that each child will produce a presentation for their class over the course of the school year. This was introduced a few years ago and the children spoke about a range of topics including their grandparents, their pets, an interest they had and much, much more. In Wrens we ask the children to do a presentation about their favourite book, or special event they have attended or topic of interest such as dinosaurs. These presentations will be shared with the child's class during story time on Tuesdays and will begin after the Christmas break.

In the first term of this year we will model and teach the skills to support children to prepare these presentations. When the children present to their class, the audience will be expected to listen and ask relevant questions. Last year we found that this task gave children a good opportunity to develop public speaking skills as well as sharing something that interests them. Some children who have previously been reluctant to speak in front of the class really surprised us - and possibly themselves! It also gave their friends a good opportunity to find about children and their interests. The activity also practises the skills of asking and answering questions.

We ask that you spend time with your child preparing for their presentation as it forms part of their home learning. They can bring in resources to support their presentation and be as creative as they wish!

Kind regards,

Mrs Chattey
